RICHARD & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS

Mr. Geo. H. Hillyer, son of Colonel Hillyer, who has been in England for the past three years, interesting capital in the Alice A mine, arrived in town last night. Mr. Hillyer says that his father has returned from England, where he was successful in promoting a company to operate the Alice A mine, the famous low grade lode of the Seine River district. The colonel is now in Duluth and is making arrangements for starting operations at the mine, and for the speedy erection of a 100 stamp mill.

Mr. Hillyer is here in connection with the Foley mine in which he is financially interested, and says that the mine that has lain idle so long will now boom with activity. The new company organized to operate it is known as the Protogene Mining Company.

Watch for the big street parade at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

OUR MEDICAL MEN.

Mr. Louis Cardinal, of the Iroquois, is offering a handsome silver cup for competition between representatives of the Winnipeg and Rat Portage rowing clubs on July 1.

The contest this year will be held in Rat Portage, and next year in Winnipeg. The cup is donated for a single scull contest, and must be won three years in succession before it becomes the property of either of the clubs. This cup was purchased by Mr. Cardinal last year, but was not competed for. It is now on exhibition at Dillingham's - Winnipeg Free Press.

Mr. Hull Austin to Leave.

Mr. Hull Austin, the representative of the Winnipeg Free Press, leaves next week for Port Arthur and Fort William, where will open an office for his firm. The departure of Mr. Austin from Rat Portage is a matter of deep regret to the people of the town, for besides enjoying a large personal popularity, he is without doubt one of the cleverest newspaper men we have ever seen.

THE TORONTO STRIKE.

The suddenness of the Toronto street

learnt their lesson, was always an insult to the wage worker, and a foul blot on the nation. In Toronto the presence of the soldiers, was a credit to that city's civic government, to organized labor and to the Board of Trade. The soldiers in this case, were not the hired murderers of the capitalist, as were the armed scoundrels called out by Mr. Carnegie during the Homestead strike, but merely a visible portion of a wise government, a part of the machinery of State. They were impersonal; questioning the motive of neither of the opposing sides, and holding no opinion on the merits of the dispute. They were there to keep order, and therefore could not possibly be antagonistic to any good citizen. Their presence on the streets of Toronto was as natural as the presence of policemen on the streets of Rat Portage, who are feared only by the individualist or anarchist, who insists upon obeying the dictates of his own will instead of the socialistic will—the will of the people as represented in the wise ordinances of the State's statutes.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Dowager Queen of Spain has asked the Pope to select a bride for King Alfonso, and his holiness has now two ladies in view, one an Austrian and the other a Bavarian. Neither Alfie nor the young lady who is to be queen of Spain seem to have any say in the matter, but they are not kicking, which proves conclusively that one can't generally, sometimes, always tell just what is good for him. Carumba!

While on a visit to Massachusetts the Governor of Arkansas heard many expressions of sympathy for the poor, oppressed negro of the south and the first thing he did when he got back to his home was to pardon a negro who was convicted of assault with intent to kill, but on condition that he at once repair to Massachusetts and become a citizen of that state. The governor says he desires to give the people of the east an opportunity to reform a certain portion of the negro population of Arkansas.

DOMINION DAY SPORTS.

A Large List of Entries Received by Secretary Toole of the Rowing Club.

The Dominion Day Regatta which will be held by the Rowing Club next Tuesday, promises to eclipse all former years with its numbers of outside entries, and to present the biggest list of aquatic sports ever seen in Rat Portage. The first rowing event will be called for 2:30 p.m., and it is expected that the programme formidable though it is, will be concluded by about 6 o'clock, as the management intend to bring on the events without any waits between them. The list of entries received from Winnipeg are as follows:

Single Scull—S. E. Richards.

Double " —C. S. Riley and F. H. Boile.

Shell Four—W. A. Clements, H. P. Carper, D. B. Sprague and T. S. Ewart, stroke.

Lapstrake Fours—W. S. Newton, E. C. Grundy, L. Battanyne and R. Fortune, stroke.

No. 2—F. W. Pace, E. S. Denison, A. E. Fenton and H. V. Hudson, stroke.

No. 3—T. O. McKay, W. A. McKay, D. McDonald, and G. O. Kingsford, stroke.

No. 4—S. E. Richards, R. K. Beaufort, H. Threlholm, and F. R. Steele, stroke.

The local crews will be picked tomorrow.

In addition to the regatta there will be the biggest fire brigade tournament ever held. The town, C. P. R. and R. P. Lumber Co. brigades have united, and beginning at nine in the morning there will be a grand parade of the combined brigades, finishing at the central fire hall, in front of which a programme of land sports, comprising in all thirty-six events, mostly free for all, will be carried out.

To finish up the day's celebration there will be a grand concert in the Hilliard opera house, at which Watkinson Mills, the king of basso singers, will appear. The Rowing Club have engaged the two right hand boxes at the theatre for the accommodation of the visiting oarsmen. The proceeds of this concert are to be given to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, so that besides turning out in full to entertain our visitors, the people may also perform a good work by patronizing this concert.

Joseph S. Brodnor, carpenter, was killed by a fall at Grenfell, Man.

any personal mention in connection with professional matters. Men who are recognized as great in surgery and medicine, whose names are known the world over, are not so modest, however; for the five medical men who are in attendance upon the King sign their names to the bulletins and they are cabled all around the world. Dr. Cyrus Edson, of New York, explained what perityphilitis was, and the associated press sent out his pronouncement to every city in the United States and Canada, and the doctor besides most likely receiving an enormous fee for his explanation, gets the biggest advertisement of his life. And yet Dr. Edson spoke only the same words as those uttered in an off-hand manner by Dr. Scovil.

THE TORONTO STRIKE.

The suddenness of the Toronto street car strike; the alarming social explosion; the grim presence of the soldiers with their gleaming bayonets and bulging ammunition pouches cracking with the latent, death-dealing rifle cartridge, and the short, sharp struggle of a few hours, and then Peace—Industrial Peace—again, all enacted within the short space of three days, makes an episode in the world's history, which, generations hence, will be pointed to as the turning point in an economical warfare that had been waging for half a century.

Compared with previous history of such phrases in commercial evolution, the Toronto Street car strike appears as if a mount Pelée had been grasped by a Titan, and throttled as it was about to vomit forth an avalanche of molten lava. Toronto—nay, Canada, ought to feel proud of that street car strike because it will teach the world several lessons—lessons in statesmanship and stateshood; lessons in industrial economics; lessons in civic government; and lessons, to that most ignorant, wilfully blind body of men, known as capitalists. It is a triumph of the state over the anarchistic individual, who refused to listen to reason because it emanated from his employees, and over the anarchistic individual who smashed car windows, and indulged in other lawlessness. These two are in the same class, and represent Anarchy; while the Board of Trade and the street car union represent another class, viz.: Order.

The presence of the military which in the past has already been commanded by the capitalist—at least in the United States, from whence the present generation of Canadians have

HEAT AND DISEASE.

THE SUN'S RAYS ARE FATAL TO MANY SPECIES OF GERMS.

As a Disinfectant Sunlight is the Greatest Agent in Nature—Temperatures at Which Disease Germs
Are Destroyed.

Sunlight is fatal to some of the lower forms of living things, including certain disease germs which are the cause of some of the most fatal infectious diseases that afflict the human race.
In fact, the greatest disinfectant in nature is light, or, to be more exact, the radiations of the sun, including heat rays, light rays and the invisible rays
at the violet end of the solar spectrum.

An infectious disease is one which may be contracted by the introduction into the living body of living disease germs, which may be contained in different kinds of infectious material.
Thus the disease germ (bacillus) which produces diphtheria is contained in the "exudate" or "false membrane" deposited in the throat or nasal passages of those suffering from this disease, and the material coughed up by a patient with diphtheria is infectious material. In cholera and in typhoid fever the discharges from the bowels contain the germ and are consequently infectious material.

Now, the object of disinfection is to prevent the extension of infectious diseases by destroying the specific infectious agents—germs—which give rise to them; and this is accomplished by the use of disinfectants. Having, as I hope, made this clear.

Any chemical agent which destroys or kills bad odors is commonly spoken of as a disinfectant, and there are a large number of so called "disinfectants" in the market which are simply deodor-ants and which are entirely untrustworthy for the destruction of infectious material—that is, material containing living disease germs.

These disease germs belong to the class of low vegetable organisms—microscopic plants—known as bacteria, which as a rule thrive better in the darkness than when exposed to daylight, and some of them are quickly destroyed by exposure to direct sunlight. In experiments made by me in 1893 it was demonstrated that the cholera bacillus is infallibly killed by ex-posure to direct sunlight for an hour or two, and the distinguished German bacteriologist, Dr. Robert Koch, has shown that the bacillus of consumption —tubercle bacillus—is destroyed by similar exposure in a time varying from a few minutes to several hours, depending upon the thickness of the layer of material in which it is imbedded.

As a result of this it is evident that the material coughed up by patients with consumption and containing tubercle bacilli in vast numbers is far less dangerous to the community in regions where the patient can live out of doors and where the sun shines nearly every day in the year.

Some disease germs which are not killed outright by exposure to the sun's rays are greatly restrained in their development. This is true of the bacillus of typhoid fever. Although it has been shown by carefully conducted experiments that certain disease germs are promptly destroyed by the luminous ra-yons of the sun.

Lost by a Toy Balloon.

Diamonds and other jewels have been lost in all sorts of queer ways, but in none more unusual than the accident mentioned in the Boston Transcript, by which a diamond brooch was snatched from the owner's dress and left somewhere on the great plains.

A young woman was travelling by rail through Kansas. At Kinsley, where the train made a considerable stop, a fair was in progress. Here the young woman bought of a peddler a toy balloon for a little girl who had won her fancy.

The child was delighted with the plaything, and as they rode along she chatted with her new friend and pulled the balloon up and down. At length she playfully fastened the string to the lady's diamond brooch.

The train was rounding a curve at the moment, and a strong gust of air came through the car. The balloon was carried out through the open window.
The sudden jerk on the string loosened
the brooch, and away it sailed.

The jewel was so valuable that the young woman offered a reward of $500 for its recovery. Spurred by this incentive, cowboys scoured the plains for days in all directions, but without success.

Poor Choice Either Way.

"When passing through a certain section of a certain state once," said a man who has travelled much, "a friend and I stopped at the house of a neighbor for tea. Soon after we had sat down at the table the housekeeper looked toward us and asked whether we wanted long or short sweetening in our coffee. As she asked that question I looked toward my friend, and he looked at me. I nudged him in the side, meaning that I wanted him to speak.
He said he would take long sweetening.

With that she put her finger in a cup of molasses, put the same finger in his coffee and stirred. That was long sweetening.

"Then she asked me what I wanted, and I said immediately, 'Short.' So she put her finger in another cup, took out something that resembled maple sugar, put it between her teeth and bit it in two parts. One part went into my cup and the other into hers. It seemed to be a case of no matter which sweetening you tried you'd wish you had taken the other."

Full of Snap.

Gretchen, the daughter of an old German named Kruegel, had been serving as domestic about two weeks in the household of Judge Vaughan of Richmond, when father and employer met on the village street.

"Well, yodoge," said Kruegel, "how you like dot Gretchen by dis dime already?"

"Like her?" returned the judge in his blunt way. "Why, she's just great!
We never had any one in the house in her line that entered into work with so much spirit. She's full of snap all the time."

Kruegel turned ponderingly away,
and, meeting his frau at his home portal, he sorrowfully said: "Terese, something must good wrong mit dot Gretchen. I yost dit meetet Yodoge Vorgan, and he said dot she vas full of schmapps all de dime."

tubercle bacillus is destroyed by similar exposure in time varying from a few minutes to several hours, depending upon the thickness of the layer of material in which it is imbedded.

As a result of this it is evident that the material coughed up by patients with consumption and containing tubercle bacilli in vast numbers is far less dangerous to the community in regions where the patient can live out of doors and where the sun shines nearly every day in the year.

Some disease germs which are not killed outright by exposure to the sun's rays are greatly restrained in their development. This is true of the bacillus of typhoid fever. Although it has been shown by carefully conducted experiments that certain disease germs are promptly destroyed by the luminous radiations from the sun, and especially by those at the violet end of the solar spectrum, it is also true that the heat rays play an important part in the destruction of harmful bacteria.

This is partly due to the fact that certain disease germs are quickly destroyed by being deprived of all moisture—desiccation. Thus the germs of cholera and of pneumonia quickly perish when completely dried.

Other germs, however, as those of typhoid fever, of diphtheria and of consumption, may retain their vitality in a dried condition for several months. But the germs of all these diseases are destroyed by a comparatively low temperature. In experiments which I made several years ago I ascertained that the germs of pneumonia and of cholera were killed by exposure for a few minutes to a temperature of 120 degrees F.

A still lower temperature is effective if the time of exposure is prolonged. It is therefore evident that prolonged exposure to the direct rays of the sun would destroy these germs independently of the disinfecting power or germicidal action of the luminous rays or the fatal results of desiccation.

Other disease germs require a higher temperature for their destruction. The typhoid bacillus and the bacillus of diphtheria are killed by exposure to a temperature of 140 degrees F. for ten minutes. In general, it may be stated that this temperature is fatal to all the most important disease germs.

The facts stated furnish a scientific basis for practical disinfection, and it is evident that when sunshine is available no chemical agents are essential for the destruction of disease germs. Any article of food or drink which has been heated for a few minutes to something near the boiling point of water is absolutely safe, so far as any danger from disease germs is concerned, and any article of clothing which has been put through the ordinary operations of the laundry is as safe as if it had been placed for an hour in an expensive steam disinfectant or immersed in a strong disinfecting solution.

It will be seen that scientific investigations fully justify the practice of good housewives, who at frequent intervals expose their blankets and articles of woolen clothing, which cannot be placed in boiling water without injury, to a prolonged sun bath, who could not milk pane and kitchen utensils and place them in the sun to dry and who open up their sleeping apartments for the admittance of sunlight and fresh air.—"Progress General Store," in Youth's Companion.

mond, when father and employer met on the village street.

"Well, yodoge," said Kruegel, "how you like dot Gretchen by dis dime alratty?"

"Like her?" returned the judge in his blunt way. "Why, she's just great! We never had any one in the house in her line that entered into work with so much spirit. She's full of snap all the time."

Kruegel turned ponderingly away, and, meeting his Frau at his home portal, he sorrowfully said: "Teresa, something must go wrong mit dot Gretchen. I yodot dit meeted Yododge Vorgan, und he saidt dot she was full of schnapps all de dime."

WHAT THE DEATH MASK SHOWS.

The value of a plaster cast as a portrait of the dead or living face cannot for a moment be questioned. It must of necessity be absolutely true to nature. It cannot flatter; it cannot caricature. It shows the subject as he was or is, not only as others saw him in the actual flesh, but as he saw himself. And in the case of the death mask particularly it shows the subject often as he permitted no one but himself to see himself. He does not pose; he does not "try to look pleasant." In his mask he is seen, as it were, with his mask off.

A SURE SIGN.

Little Dick—Papa, how does thunder sour milk?

Papa—It is not the thunder, but the electricity.

"How does electricity sour milk?"

"It works certain chemical changes in the constituents of the fluid, which result in the formation of an acid."

"Of course. But how?"

"I don't know."

"I thought you didn't, or you wouldn't have used such big words."

CHRISTIANS AND JEWS.

When Charles Lamb was beating an enemy, some one said to him, "Why, you don't know him." Lamb replied, "I don't want to know him for fear I should like him."

Christians and Jews make ignorance of each other a claim for judgment and seem to be afraid to become acquainted for fear that they might like each other.—"Peters' 'The Jew as a Patriot.'

SPECTACLES AND MOISTURE.

Weiggers of spectacles are frequently enjoyed by the glasses becoming dim from a deposit of moisture upon them. An easy way to prevent this is to wash the glasses every morning with soft soap suds. The glasses should then be polished, but an invisible film will remain which will prevent moisture being deposited on them.

A SEVERE CONDITION.

"What did Naibrough say when you told him you wanted to marry his daughter?"

"He didn't absolutely refuse, but he imposed a very severe condition."

"What was it?"

"He said he would see me hanged first."

Malay Weapons.

The national Malay weapon, the creese, is said to have been invented by a Japanese monarch of the fourteenth century. Its varieties are said to exceed a hundred, and there are in Java no fewer than fifty names for them. It varies in size, from the two foot wavy blade of Solu down to a mere toothpick. But the peculiarity is that the weapon is never ground, but kept rough and sawlike in edge by scouring with lime juice or the juice of an unripe pineapple, sometimes mixed with acsod, and it is on this account that creese wounds are so dangerous.

Old specimens are so eaten away by this practice that the blade is formed from a bunch of wires roughly welded up. Such creeses are highly valued, and some of the ancient ones heftreoms of cufes, with grotesquely carved and inlaid hilts and sheaths are almost unpurchasable.

Where Theft is Not Robbery.

In China theft is so common that no body notices it. A young Chortoman once slipped three oranges up his sleeve at a party. While making his bow at parting the oranges slipped out and rolled on to the floor. He accounted for the awkward event by saying that "the oranges were ripe."

LEADS AND SAVES.

Paine's Celery Compound

DR. PHELPS' WONDER - WORKING MEDICINE PRESCRIPTION.

Paine's Celery Compound is the world's great leading medicine and the seller. It has no equal for feeding exhausted nerves. It stands first as a healer of the weak and shattered nervous system.

Paine's Celery Compound has long ago proved its powers as a banisher of dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, ladies' disease, liver complaint, and as a purifier of the blood. Thousands of men and women, tired out, sleepless, nervous, irascible and despondent have been given perfect health, strength and buoyancy of spirit through the well advised use of Paine's Celery Compound. It has given a new and happy life to a vast number of people who once were stricken by ill and suffering.

If your health is impaired you are burdened with any weakening or painful malady, seek Paine's Celery Compound today. It is specially adapted for your case. It will make you well and strong. W. H. Bell, Chat-ham, Ont., says:

"I was so sickened that I was obliged to take to my bed, where I laid four months. I had doctors here and in Toronto, but my trouble was Addison's Disease of the kidneys, and told me I could never walk again. In November I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. After having used a number of bottles I was enabled to attend to business, and to live a normal life. I can affirm with confidence that Paine's Celery Compound saved my life."

blade of Sulz down to a mere toothpick. But the peculiarity is that the weapon is never ground, but kept rough and sawlike in edge by scouring with lime juice or the juice of an unripe pineapple, sometimes mixed with arsenic, and it is on this account that crease wounds are so dangerous.

Where Theft is Not Robbery.

In China theft is so common that nobody notices it. A young Chinaman once slipped three oranges up his sleeve at a party. While making his bow at parting the oranges slipped out and rolled on to the door. He accounted for the awkward event by saying that his mother was very fond of oranges. His fault was straightforward overlooked, and he was afterward held up as an instance of filial piety. There are several proverbs which go to show that the foal thinks lightly of stealing. One says that "when tailors cease to pilfer cloth their children will have to go without food," and another declares, "When silversmiths do not steal, they will certainly starve."

The Trifling Brother.

"Br'er Jenkins, you so triflin' dat I vely believes ef you wuz 'plinted ter be watclman at de pearl gates fu' tistling you'd do would be ter let down en go fas' asleep."

"Br'er Thomas, you may well say dat kaze I'd sho' feel so good over de 'plintment I'd des nebully hatter go ter sleep fer dream of it wuz true."

Discovered.

A story is told of a little girl who asked one morning at the breakfast table, "Mamma, is hash animal or vegetable?"

"Animal, my dear," replied mamma. "Then," cried the little one triumphantly, holding up a tiny bone, "here's the hash's tooth!"

A Ready Reply.

Foote's ready reply to the caution "Your handkerchief, sir, is hanging out of your pocket," was of high merit both from the surprise and for the cordial way in which the caution was accepted—"Thank you, sir; you know the company better than I do."

No Reasons For Delay.

"My darling," he exclaimed, "I would go to the end of the earth for you." There was a slight pause while the orchestra played tremulous ragtime. "Suppose," she said, "you begin your travels now."

The Messenger Boy.
"Why is it that one can never get a bright, reliable and speedy messenger?"
"De company don't pay dat kind of wages, ma'am."

It is never right to say what one does not mean, but why not mean the nice things? Insincerity does not necessarily follow in the wake of politeness.

"It will do you more good to acknowledge your faults than it will do you enemies.—Archdeacon Globe.

compelled to endure."

I went over to Thirteenth street and asked a physician there the same question, telling him what the Fourteenth street man had said. Two other doctors happened to be in the room. The Thirteenth street man grinned.

"Old specimens are so eaten away by this practice that the blade seems formed from a bunch of wires roughly welded up. Such creases are highly valued, and some of the ancient ones, heftlooms or cleats, with grotesquely carved and inlaid bits and sheaths, are almost unpurchaseable.

He looked at the other medical men for confirmation of his opinion. One of them leaned forward earnestly.

"What did you take for it?" he asked, and the Thirteenth street man merely blushed.

Crowing In Lent.

"During the season of Lent," says the London Chronicle, "it was anciently the custom of the watchmen to crow the hour of the night instead of shouting it, the intention being doubtless to remind sleepless sinners of the effect of the third crowing of the cock hall of St. Peter. This custom, too, was observed at the royal court, an officer known as 'the king's cock crower' performing the duty within the precincts of the palace."

"On the first Ash Wednesday after the accession of the house of Hanover, as the then Prince of Wales, afterward George II., was at supper, this officer entered and crowed 'past 10 o'clock.' The astonished prince mistook the crow for an insult and rose to resent it; but was made to understand with some difficulty that the custom was in accordance with court etiquette. The crier was from that time discontinued."

His Lureative Business.

"Wanted—For a lucrative business, a partner who must be a practical locksmith." This advertisement appeared in a Budapest paper recently. The advertiser is now in jail, the police having discovered that the lucrative business referred to was burglary.

Smart Child.

"You never say my hands as dirty as yours," said a mother to her little girl. "No, but grandmother did," was the reply.—Motherhood.
